Sprint Waste Services Honored for Outstanding Safety Performance

Nominated Companies Called 'Models of Safety Excellence'

HOUSTON (May 21, 2015) — Sprint Waste Services has been honored by the Houston Business Roundtable at the 2015 Safety Excellence Awards, winning best in category for its work at the ExxonMobil refining and petrochemical facility in Baytown, Texas. This is the third consecutive year Sprint Waste has been nominated by ExxonMobil and recognized for this prestigious award.

Winners were announced May 15 during the 28th Annual HBR Contractor Safety Excellence Awards at Moody Gardens in Galveston, Texas. More than 1,400 industry representatives of both owner and contractor companies attended the banquet, hosted by the HBR and the Houston Area Safety Council.

Seventy-six nominated companies were recognized for exemplary safety performance and called "models of safety excellence." Of those, only 14 were named best in their categories. Sprint Waste Services won in the Specialty Contractor—Technical Support Large category.

"We are incredibly honored to once again be nominated by ExxonMobil and recognized for our best-in-class safety efforts by leading professionals in the industries we serve," said Sprint Waste Services owner and President Will Swinbank. "Our in-plant services team at the Baytown facility should be commended for working to achieve stellar safety audit results over the duration of this contract."

Established in 1988, the Houston Business Roundtable awards recognize contractors in the greater Houston area that have achieved an outstanding record of worksite performance during the previous year. The awards process is rigorous and includes an extensive site audit, as well as an evaluation and rating of more than 100 specific safety items. Contractors must be nominated by owner companies and are categorized based on work type and company size.

Mentoring and continual improvement are unique features of the award process, according to the Houston Business Roundtable. As such, this year's winners have been invited to lead a "safety best practices" seminar to industry professionals on June 18.
